1. [REDACTED] in Danzig Bay [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] three or four submarines and three MTBs were about eight nautical miles southeast of the southern tip of Hela Peninsula (see photo no. 1). 25X1

2. Some, possibly two large and four small, units were conducting a gunnery exercise on 3 May about six nautical miles west-southwest of the inlet to Baltiysk. As a target they were using a sled towed by a tug.
[REDACTED] Photo no. 2 is of a submarine chaser which was five nautical miles north of Baltiysk on 3 May. 25X1

3. [REDACTED] The sketch map includes items of interest [REDACTED] At point 1 a view for a short distance up the river was available. There was a pier there at which there were a number of vessels—MTBs or the like. [REDACTED] [REDACTED] this was a harbor from which the Poles were barred. At point 2 there was a wreck of an old warship, possibly from World War II. 25X1

4. Along the coast from the mouth of the Wisla (Vistula) River to Baltiysk, about 2000 yards inland, there were several wooden towers. In each case the tower was rectangular and constructed of heavy timbers, but around the tower was a sort of scaffold-like structure which made the whole thing shaped like a Christmas tree. (see inset on sketch map). [REDACTED] [REDACTED] the height of the towers to be about 20 meters. No people, wires, antennas, or the like were observed in the vicinity of the towers. 25X1
